THE VOLUNTEER COUNSEL.

A TALE OF JOHN TAYLOR.

John Taylor was licensed, when outh of twenty one, to practice at bar. He was poor, but well educated, fore, elbowed his way through the terspersed with jests and anecdotes and professed extraordinary genius. crowd and placed himself within the Will practice in all the courts of Union and The graces of his person combined bur. At an early hour on the 9th o April 1840 the Court House Clarksville, Texas, was filled to over flowing. Save in the war time past, there nover was such a gathering in the Red River country, while the strong feeling apparent on every flushed face will sufficiently explain which in mighty memories always the matter.

of his chief overseer. The husband threatened to chastise him for the outrage; whereupon the planter loaded his gun, went to Elliston's house and shot him in his own door. The murderer was arrested and bailed to answer the charge.

This occurrence produced immense excitement, and the murderer, in order to turn the tide of the popular opinion or to mitigate the general wrath that was violent against him circulated reports infamously prejudicial to the character of the woman who had suffered such cruel wrong at his hands. She brought a suit for slander. Thus two cases, one criminal and the other civil, and both out of the same tragedy, were pending in the April Circuit Court for 1840

The excitement of the crowd was becoming tremendous. Their life and soul appeared to hang on the burning tongue of the stranger. He inspired them with the power of his own malicious feelings. He seemed to have stolen nature's long hidden secret of attraction. He was the sun to the sea of motion which rose and fell as he chose. But his great tri umph was to come.

His eyes began to gleam furtively at the assassin Hopkins, and his keen taper tingers slowly assumed the same direction. He hemmed the wretch in with a circumvallation of strong evi dence and impregnable argument, cut ting off all hope of success. He piled up huge bastians of insurmountable

He dug beneath the murderer and slander's feet ditches of dilemmas, as no sophistry could overleap, and no stretch of ingenuity evade; and having thus, as one might say, impounded his victim and girt him about like a scorpion in a circle of fire, he stripped himself to the massacre.

Oh! then, but it was a vision both glorious and dreadful to behold the orator. His actions, before graceful as the waves of a golden willow in this breeze grew as impetuous as an loak in the hurricane. His voice became a trumpot filled with wild whirl who it was, or how it happened, was pools, declening the ear with crashes of power, and yet intermingling all Col. Ashley spoke first. He dealt the while with a sweet under song of the sweetest cadence. His face was red as a drunkard's—his countenance looked haggard like that of a maniac, and ever and anon he flung his long, bony arms on high as if gasping after thunderbolts. He drew a picture of neither the plaintiff nor the plaintiff's murder in such appalling colors, that ragged attorney, were either forgo!- in comparison hell itself might be considered beautiful. He painted the slanderer so black that the sun seemed dark at noonday, when shining on such an accursed monster; and then he so fixed both portraits on the shrinking brow of Hopkins that he nailed them there forever. The agitation of the audience now nearly amounted to madness.

The Result.

We know about as much of the result of the recent election now as we will know, in all probability, before the assembling of that body and the swearing in of the delegates,. According to our count it stands 59 Conservatives (including the vacancy occasioned by the death of Hon. W. A. Grabam); 58 Radicals; 3 Independents of these three Ina Radical and will very probably act with the Radicals. Wilcox, of Ashe, claim to have brought him out and act with them. Spake, of Jackson, will probably act with the Democrats, while the Radicals claim that Durham. of Cleaveland, (who is classed among the Democrats) will act with them. If this be so, and they secure the cooperation of Durham and Wilcox and Ransom, giving us Spake, (which they refuse to do) they will have 61 to our 59, supposing the vacancy from Orange to be filled by a Democrat. Colonel Lamer, who was grand larceny, but his counsel waived recently unanimously renominated for an examination, and urging that the of the anti-color-line movement, and nothing to do with the amount of bail it would seem that he carried the day in the recent State Convention at Jackson. The platform adopted "recognizes to the fullest extent the civil and political equality of all mon, and asks the aid of voters of both races and of all parties to secure honest government for the State." The color line, we are told, was entirely ignored.

This is good news, for it shows that moderate counsels have prevailed in a State, where the colored voters, under the leadership of corrupt white men, have certainly given some sesious provocations to those citizens who desire good government, and where, on the other hand, some democrais have shown a bad and intolerant temper which alarmed the blacks and did much to fling them bodily into the hands of designing political schemers. Colonel Lamer has been foremost among those Mississippians who urged moderation and who saw that the color line could not usefully and safely be maintained in politics in any State, and least of all in Mississippi, where the colored men have a majority over the whites.

The negro politicians of Mississippi are, in the main, an unscrupulous set. Lately they have held several public meetings, at which they themselves advocated the color line and that they ought not to affiliate with white men in politics. The attitude of the democrats now taken in their Convention will be apt to lead the colored voters to reason, We hope Colonel Lamer's health will enable him to canvass the State thoroughly, and particularly the Yazoo Bottom and the region generally where the colored men have large majorities. His own election is assured. He will receive not only the solid democratic vote in his district, which is the majority, but probably a considerable part of the republican vote as well. He could do no more useful or important work this fall than to address the colored people of his State, and explain to them how their own interest are involved in good government and why the color line is particularly injurious to the blacks. He is known everywhere as an honorable and just man, of moderate views, and the colored people would listen to him because they know thoy can trust him.—N. Y. Herald.

THE PERFECTION OF MECHANISM.

(MADE UNDER THE LEECH PATENTS.) After a large expenditure of time and money in experimenting on the Knitting Machine, we have been enabled to make a simple practical machine, especially adapted to family use on account of its simplicity and the great range of work it will accomplish. It is more simple than a sewing machine, and any person ordinarily skillful will learn its use with only the assistance of the "Instruction Book," which accompanies each machine. Its simplicity, together with its capacity for doing the great range of work, makes it a matter of economy for every family to have one, and will ultimately bring it in general use, as is the case with the Sewing Machine. The machine will knit—in cotton, wool, silk or linen-socks, stockings, leggings, mittens, wristers, scurfs, fghans, blankets, &c., &c. In fact, the capacity of the machine for making garments is only limited by the ingenuity of the operator. Jno. G. Wells, the well-known publisher of "Every Man His Own Law-
