FARMER GRAY.

You may envy the joys o' the farmer, And talk o' his free' easy life— You may sit at his bountiful table, An' praise his industrious wife: Ef you worked in the woods in the winter, Or followed the furrow all day, With a team o' unruly young ozen, An' feet heavy-loaded with clay— Ex you held the old plow, I'm a-thinkin' You'd sing in a different way

You may dream o' the white-crested daisies,
An' lilies that wear sech a charm;
But it gives me a heap o' hard labor
To keep 'em from spoilin' my farm.
You may pictor the skies in their splendor
The landscape so full o' repose;
But I never git time to look at 'em,
Except when it rains or it snows.
You may sing o' the song-birds o' summer;
I'll tend to the hawks and the crows.

An' dwell on the pleasure o' toil;
But the good things we hav on our table
All hev to be dug from the soil,
An' our beautiful, bright-golden butter,
Perhaps you may never hav learned,
Makes a pile o' hard work for the wimmin'
It has to be cheefully churned It has to be cheerfully churned.

And the cheeses, so plump in the pantry,
All have to be lifted and turned.

When home from the bay-field, in summer With stars gleaming over my head—
When I milk by the light o' my lantern,
An' wearily crawl into bed—
When I think o' the work o' the morrow,
An' worry for fear it might rain,
While I list to the roll o' the thunder,
An hear my companion computation. An, hear my companion complain— Then it seems as if life was a burden, With leetle to hope fur or gain.

But the corn must be planted in spring-time.
The weeds must be kept from the ground,
An' the hay must be cut in the meader,
The wheat must be cradled an' bound—
Fur we never are out of employment, Except when we lie in the bed. All the wood must be chopped, in the winter, An' patiently piled in the shed; An' the grain must be snaked to the market, The stock must be watered and fed.

But the farmer depends upon only The generous bounty o' God; An' he always is sure o' a livin' By turnin an' tillin' the sod. When his wearisome work is all over, With conscience all spotless and clear. He may leave the old farm-house forever

To dwell in a holier sphere; An' the crown that he wears may be brighter Because o' his simple life here.

The Labor Convention.

The Mississippi Valley Labor Convention, which has been in session at Vicksburg, which was composed of colored as well as white delegates, closed their labors on the 6th. Whether the result will be productive of any supetantial good remains to be seen. The resolutions are broad and comhad agreed upon a verdict. It was prehensive, striking at the root of the detained to correct an informality, and evil of the exodus of colored laborers, and if they are faithfully carried out can hardly fail of bettering the condition of both races as well as fostering a better feeling between both whites and blacks. In the report of the committee on resolutions, it is stated that "there are in the State of Mississippi alone 5500,000 acres of land belonging to the United States, now subject to homestead entries. Any thrifty colored man in the South can preempt a bundered and sixty acres of this land at the moderate cost of about $18. Land in Kansas cannot be acquired for less. half hour, to have the hile and other impurities strained or filtered from it. Bile is the natural purgative of the bowels, and if the Liver becomes torpid it is not separated from the blood, but carried through the veins to all parts of the system, and in trying to escape through the pores of the skin, causes it to turn yellow or a dirty brown color. The stomach becomes diseased, and Dyspesia, Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Jaundice, Chills, Malarial Fevers, Piles, Sick and Sour Stomach, and general debility follow. Merrhell's Herating, the great vegetable discovery for torpidity, causes the Liver to throw off from one to two ounces of bile each time the blood passes through it, as long as there is an excess of bile; and the effect of even a few doses if you yellow complexion or a brown dirty looking skin, will astonish all who try it—they being the first symptoms to disappear. The cure of all bilious diseases and Liver complaint is made certain by taking Herating in accordance with directions. Headache is generally cured in twenty minutes, and no disease that arises from the Liver can exist if a fair trial is given.
