most effective LUNG BALSAM ever offered to sufferers from pulmonary DR. J. F. HAYWOOD, of New York, voluntarily indorses it. -

-READ WHAT HE SAYS:-Dr. TUIT: New York, Sept., 19, 1877.

Dear Sir—During this year I vasited nine hundred cases of lung diseases. In the lower wards of the leity the cases were of a very severe type. It was there my attention was called to Trut's Expectorant, and I confess my surprise at its wonderful power. During a practice of twenty years, I have never known a medicine to act as promptly, and with such happy effects. It instantly subdued the most violent fits of coughing, and invariably cured the disease in a few days. I cheerfully indorse it as the best lung medicine I ever used.

with pneumonis last winter, which left him with a violent cough, that lasted till within a month since, for the cure of which I am indebted toyour valuable Expectorant. I had tried most every thing recommended, but none did any good until I used your Expectorant, one bottle of which removed the cough entirely. With many thanks, I am yours truly,

The American Agriculturist asks spelled differently but same pronunciation. why we cannot grow larger crops, and says:-There are localities where it may pay to grow small crops cheaply. where one may skin the land for a few years and leave it, just as in some places cattle are or have been killed for their hides and the carcasses left to decay. But every year these localities are growing more and more distant in the West, and in time land will be too valuable to be used in so wasteful a manner. In central and eastern localities the future prosperity of the farmers will depend upon the growth of larger crops by the expenditure of more labor on the land. To reach this end will be work of time, but it will never be reached unless a beginning is made, and there was never a more propitious time to begin than right now.
